

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An adaptive wireless transmitting/receiving system combines an adaptive modulation and coding (AMC) technique and a transmit diversity (TD) technique. A channel state is periodically checked and a coding technique and a modulation technique that are most suitable to the checked channel state are applied to a system, to thereby remarkably enhance a quality of a receiving signal.